Plexr Plasma Device: A Non-Invasive Skin Rejuvenation Solution

The quest for youthful, radiant skin has led to the development of several cosmetic procedures, including the innovative Plexr plasma device. This cutting-edge technology is used in the field of aesthetic medicine to promote non-surgical skin rejuvenation. By harnessing the power of plasma, Plexr stimulates skin tightening, improves texture, and addresses various skin concerns.

How does it work? Plexr generates a controlled plasma arc, which interacts with the skin's surface to trigger collagen remodeling, tissue contraction, and rejuvenation. Compared to traditional surgical procedures and other non-invasive treatments, Plexr offers several advantages. Its non-surgical nature eliminates the need for incisions, sutures, or general anesthesia. It is also versatile, capable of addressing a wide range of skin concerns, from wrinkles and sagging skin to pigmentation issues, acne scars, and stretch marks.

Plexr provides precise targeting and control during treatment, minimizing damage to surrounding tissues. Moreover, it offers minimal downtime and side effects, allowing patients to resume daily activities shortly after treatment. The long-lasting results are achieved through collagen production and tissue regeneration.

What sets Plexr apart from other plasma pens? Plexr stands out due to its technical advancements, treatment range, customization options, and FDA approval. It incorporates innovative technology for enhanced precision, energy delivery, and overall effectiveness. Plexr's wide treatment range and customization capabilities allow for addressing various skin concerns, including delicate areas such as the eyelids and lips. Its FDA approval signifies that it has met stringent safety and efficacy standards, providing reassurance to medical professionals and patients.

Satisfaction with the treatment was recorded.

METHODS: A descriptive, cross-sectional study was conducted. Participants in the study included all individuals who underwent plasma exeresis at the Tsioumas Clinic in Greece over a period of eight months from September 2018 to April 2019. Frequency distribution tables were used to describe the types of cases and the number of patients who underwent plasma exeresis treatment each month.

RESULTS: A total of 710 patients underwent plasma exeresis within 124 actual working days during the study period. Of these, 73.4% (n=528) were women, and 25.6% (n=182) were men. The most cases were recorded in January, March, November, and February, representing 15.5 percent, 15.4 percent, 15 percent, and 14 percent of the total cases, respectively. Over 33 percent and 18 percent of patients were treated in the upper and lower eyelids, respectively.

PATIENT SATISFACTION: Of 710 patients, 152 (21.4%) were not able to be reached to assess satisfaction; 558 patients were evaluated for satisfaction. Of these 558, 295 (52.9%) reported being "extremely satisfied" with the plasma exeresis treatment; 35.5% of the patients responded that they were "very much satisfied" with the treatment. Nearly five percent of patients rated their level of satisfaction as "much satisfied" and nearly six percent of respondents rated their satisfaction as either "a little satisfied" or "satisfied enough."

Out of the total 710 patients who originally underwent a plasma exeresis procedure, 319 subjects remained in contact with the clinic and again underwent the plasma exeresis procedure. Figure 5 illustrates the number of patients who underwent plasma exeresis in one or more than one areas from September - April 2021

To ensure successful results from a Plexr Plasma service, it's important to follow specific pre-procedure requirements.

Here are a few pre-procedure instructions to consider:

10 day Pre-procedure Preparation:

Avoid using retinol, skin exfoliate products, harsh cleansers, and skin irritants 10 day before procedure.

Take ten arnica tablets before and after the service, 12 capsules per day for 10 day ' before and after.

Drink plenty of water before the treatment to hydrate your body, which can improve the skin's ability to heal and recover.

By following these pre-procedure instructions diligently, you can enhance the effectiveness of the treatment and maximize its benefits.

Post-procedure Care:

After receiving a Plexr Plasma service, it's essential to follow the post-procedure care instructions provided.

Here are some post-procedure instructions to consider:

Avoid using any skincare products, including cleansers, until the carbon crusts fall off. Avoid showers, steam baths, and hot tubs.

After carbon crust falls off use a mild cleanser and the the aftercare treatment you will have purchased.

Avoid sun exposure for 30 days unless using 50 SPF sunscreen.

Following the recommended post-procedure care routine can support the healing process and optimize the outcomes of the treatment.

Downtime and Recovery:

After the treatment, there may be some downtime and initial side effects. The treated areas may appear red, swollen, or crusty, similar to small scabs. These side effects usually subside within a week or two. It's important to follow the aftercare instructions provided by your provider, which may include avoiding sun exposure, using recommended skincare products, and gently caring for the treated areas during the healing process.

Results and Maintenance:

Visible results from Plexr Plasma skin rejuvenation can be seen gradually as the skin heals and regenerates. Multiple treatment sessions may be recommended to achieve optimal results, typically spaced 12 weeks apart. Maintenance treatments can help sustain the improvements over time.

Preparation Guidelines:

Before undergoing a Plexr Plasma service, it's important to note that individuals with Fitzpatrick type skin 1, 2, and 3 may only require post-treatment care, while those with types 4 will need both pre-and post-treatment care. Additionally, all clients will be required to take a Fitzpatrick scale test before receiving any services. It's important to note that candidates with darker skin may be at higher risk for hypopigmentation. Fitzpatrick types 5 and 6 are not good candidates for Plexr Plasma services, and we recommend micro-needling services instead.

Potential Risks and Considerations:

While Plexr Plasma skin rejuvenation is generally considered safe, there are some potential risks and considerations. These may include temporary skin discoloration, infection (if proper aftercare is not followed), and transient hyperpigmentation or hypopigmentation.
